

Cambridge English

November 2010

Online courses, online practice tests from Cambridge ESOL

Have you already tried out the demo versions for Cambridge ESOL new online practice tests? Click on the links below to access the level you are interested in and experience the online test first-hand.

Try FCE Online Practice Test sample

Try CAE Online Practice Test sample

These two levels are already available and can be purchased directly from Cambridge ESOL e-shop at <https://eshop.cambridgeesol.org/default.aspx>.

KET, KET for Schools, PET and PET for Schools are coming out in the next few days.

These online practice tests come in very handy at a time in the year when students are craving for more and more exam practice materials. Designed by Cambridge ESOL themselves, these tests can provide your students with very valuable additional exam practice in a fully reliable and very flexible way.

Are you preparing students for our exams?

Please visit our Cambridge ESOL Teacher Support Website where you will find:

- Detailed coverage of Cambridge ESOL exams
- Support and advice for language teachers
- Hints, tips and classroom activities

You might also want to direct your students to our Candidate Support Website for extra practice. Keep them busy!

Get ready for LABCI 2011!

The 13th LABCI Conference will take place in Asunción, Paraguay on 14th, 15th, 16th July 2011. This unique academic event aims at the development of the English language teaching profession, to the benefit of the English language learner community.

Every two years a great number of teachers, academic managers and the most renowned international speakers gather at one of the largest ELT conferences in Latin America. Learn all about the LABCI Conference at www.labci2011.org.py

FCE Recognition

Most of the courses at Universidad Católica Argentina, include English in their curriculum. Students who have passed FCE with a B can accredit their level without having to sit for an exam.

Prof. Inés Castelli, Director of Language Department

2011 Examination dates

More dates, more flexibility, more choice

We recognise that our schools around the world have different terms, semesters and academic years and offer exam preparation courses of different lengths. That is why we are substantially increasing the number of examination dates in 2011 - both for paper-based and computer-based exams. We want you to have the flexibility to select from the available dates and choose those which fit your schedules and best meet your candidates' needs.

Click here to see the complete calendar for 2011